On 15 November 2021 (Monday) at 17:30 the opening of the Second Academic Year of the "Academy of Agricultural Education and Science" (www.acadzon.bg) is forthcoming with the module "Applied Aspects of Plant Protection". Training at AZON is conducted in a combined form – online, during the least active agricultural period (from mid-November to mid-March) and in person, in the field – according to a specific schedule in the active season.

During this academic year the Academy is expanding its activities by covering a total of 7 modules, which include 19 academic disciplines. In addition to the two modules, "Applied Aspects of Plant Protection" (with 6 disciplines) and "Soil Health" (with 4 disciplines), with which it launched its activities in 2020, AZON offers the following five modules: "Economic, Organizational and Institutional Issues of Agribusiness" (with 4 disciplines), "Agroecology and Organic Farming" (with 2 disciplines), "Plant Breeding and Seed Production", "Viticulture" and "Fruit Growing", each of them with one academic discipline. Those wishing to study at the Academy have the opportunity to enroll in more than one module simultaneously. The academic curricula presented on the Academy's website may undergo certain changes, taking into account the interests of the trainees. The lecturers at the "Academy of Agricultural Education and Science" are among the best-prepared and most recognizable specialists in their field in Bulgaria.

The Academy of Agricultural Education and Science is a new, modern form of training, created with care for all Bulgarian producers and specialists who wish to enhance their knowledge, skills and professional experience. Within the broad range of lecture programmes, the Academy offers solutions to current economic, agronomic and organizational problems in agribusiness. Innovations aimed at profitability and a high culture of agriculture, as well as the latest achievements of research activities in Bulgaria and abroad, help to achieve the highest standards in the sector.
