Lift the gladiolus bulbs, remove the rotten scales and cut off the roots. Dry well in the shade and store during the winter in a cool place.

Collect seeds from the summer annual flowers that you will sow in the spring.

Plant the bulbs of the bulbous plants – tulips, daffodils, hyacinths, etc., which you lifted at the end of June.

Now is the time to transplant all perennial herbaceous flowers.

Water chrysanthemums regularly, but avoid wetting the leaves.
